

ABSTRACT

A magnetic-ring structure includes at least two states, and at least one twisted state that includes a 360° domain wall that can exist over a wide range of applied fields.